J. Smejkal, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, today introduced the Omnibus bill making appropriations for the state charitable institutions for the two years commencing July 1, 1915. One of the items of the bill makes an appropriation of $500,000 for the erection of buildings, other improvements, supervision and care of the property of the state epileptic colony at Dixon.

(Associated Press)

Springfield, Ill., Mch. 24—By vote of 79 to 2 the house, sitting as a committee of the whole, voted out and recommended the passage of the Curtis joint resolution providing for the submission to the voters of the state of Illinois of a proposition for holding a constitutional convention to consider and plan changes in the constitution of the state.

Opponents of the proposition declared that the vote shows that the resolution will be defeated when it comes to a final vote. To pass the resolution a two-thirds vote, or 102, will be required. Nearly the entire membership was present today, but many did not vote, among those present but not voting being Devine, Brewer and Leech. No date has been set for the final vote.

Gov. Dunne today appointed Wm.
L. O'Connell of Chicago as chairman of the State Public Utilities commission to succeed James E. Quan, of Chicago, who resigned. O'Connell recently retired as treasurer of Cook county.

Seat Republicans.

The senate today seated Baldwin and Austin, republican contestants of the 11th and 23rd districts respectively.

N. Dixon School District May Be Enlarged Soon

Movement Under Way To Consolidate With "Wild Cat"
District

A movement is now under way to unite the school district on the north side of the river, known as district
No. 23, with district No. 3 extending out in Palmyra township, or better known as the "Wild Cat" district. It is reported that the trustees of the two districts look with favor on the proposition and the rural district would no doubt be greatly benefited in the consolidation in giving them the advantage of a city school, while the North Dixon district would have its territory greatly enlarged, which would reduce the school tax rate materially.

When the Loveland school house was erected the idea was kept in mind that at some future date it might be necessary to have more than four grades taught in the building and accordingly a two story building was erected, two rooms on the upper floor not being finished and so the first floor and basement is all of the structure now used. In case the consolidation should be effected the upper rooms could be finished without great expense to the district and an abundant of room could be had and the first to eighth grades of school work could be taught in the building. The electric line runs within a block and a half of the school and it affords excellent facilities for the children in getting back and forth from their homes to the school. There is a hard road through the district and those who might want to drive back and forth could do so at all times of the year. The upper northwest corner of the district might be rather far removed from the Loveland school, but as this is a small corner and less than half a dozen children of school age reside there, they might petition to be set off and be permitted to join with district No. 205, and go to Woosung school, which is not very far distant.

SAYS MOOSE AND G. O. P. WILL JOIN

SENATOR POINDEXTER STATES
THAT 1916 WILL FIND THEM
ALL UNITED.

Washington, D. C., Mch. 21—That the republican and progressive parties will be together in 1916 in the fight on their common foe, democracy was the prediction made today by Senator Poindexter of Washington, the only member of the progressive party in the senate.

"I do not think the progressive party will name a candidate in 1916," he said. "I think a progressive type of republican will be named, that both parties will get behind him and he will be elected.

"Of course it will be impossible for the people who voted for Roosevelt two years ago to support a reactionary if one is nominated by the republicans, and such a course would be fatal to any getting together of the two parties. I think and hope that this fact will be fully realized by all republicans."

NATIONALISM IS CAUSE OF GREAT WAR SAYS RABBI

TELLS PEOPLE THAT NATIONAL-ISM OVERSHADOWS QUES-TIONS OF HUMANITY.

"THE WAR AND JUDAISM"

Wicked for a Nation To Be Unprepared, But Preparedness Brings Danger—Praises Wilson.

(By the Associated Press)

Chicago, Jan. 18—Dr. Samuel Schulman, Rabbi of the Temple Beth-El, New York, who delivered an address today before the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, on the subject, "The War and Judaism" said the profoundest cause of the war was the intense nationalism prevailing in all thought.

"Nationalism" he continued "seems to overshadow all considerations of universal human interest, all questions of humanity. Everything seems to have been concentrated into the self-glorification of the nation. It has come to worship itself, to limit the world to its national horizon. No nation is as yet ready to sacrifice itself for humanity, even as the individual is called upon to sacrifice himself for the state or nation. No nation has outgrown its barbaric childhood, it has not become mature, if it has not yet made its guiding principle a consideration for the interests of humanity, if it does not look upon mankind as larger than itself and a holier ideal than its own aggrandizement or giorification."

Dr. Schulman said he believed the idea of nation based on race wrong
and that it was destined to pass away.
The ideal state should be based on the rights of men, irrespective of race or creed, he said.

"It is not things alone, as is sometimes superficially said," Dr. Schulman continued, "that bring on war.
Democracies may hurt themselves in a war. It is the tremendous selfish interests, the terrible passions, the unreasoning hatreds of men that break out into the fury of war. Let us therefore, not be self righteous, let us be fair, even as we are sympathetic toward the unfortunate people of Europe that are engaged in this, greatest of all wars.

"The conflict had been preparing for decades. Every nation that is in the war today is there because it wished it. If it wished to be out of it,
it would have found another way.
And this will and this wish, prepared for decades, and the very preparation brought on the conflict. This is the tragic irony of human limitation and contradiction in life. A nation cannot, should not remain unprepared. It is a crime for any nation to leave itself unprotected, exposed to the arbitrary might of any other nation. And yet, man becomes the victim of his own ernest preparation for defense. The heaping up of the magazine makes it possible that any spark will explode
it."

The war has not proven the fallacy of religion, Dr. Schulman explained.
"Thousands no doubt all over the world, have had their faith shaken.
Men and women have asked, Where established the interesting fact that to the amount of money necessary to be spent by the state, will arrive

Springfield on the I. C. train.

French Battleship Sunk and Type Of Turkish Fort In Dardanelles

Photos by American Press Association.

The destruction of the French battleship Bouvet and the two British battle cruisers Irresistible and Ocean by floating Turkish mines in the Dardanelles during a bombardment of the land guns by the allied fleet was the first serious blow delivered by the Turks. One of these pictures shows a fort in the Dardanelles. Some of these forts have been silenced by the warships, but others are still active and effective, as evidenced in the case of the French battleship Gaulois and the British battle cruiser Indefatigable. The Bouvet is here shown.

SCHOOLS WILL GET $12,860 FROM TAX FUNDS OF STATE

CO. SUPT. MILLER MAILS STATE-MENT OF THE DISTRIBUTABLE
FUNDS IN HIS HANDS.

FINES RETURNED TO ATTORNEY

Acting Upon Advice of the Attorney General Mr. Miller Gives Back $169.

County Superintendent L. W. Miller is today mailing to the various school treasurers of Lee county the school funds provided by the state for the support of the public schools.

The amount distributed this year is $12648.87, as compared with $12, 995.91 last year. This reduction is due to the fact that under a new law
the states attorney collects the fines imposed and collected in the justice courts, and he in turn pays this money to the county treasurer. Acting upon the advice of Hon. P. J. Lucey, attorney general of Illinois, the county superintendent of schools has surrendered to the states attorney of Lee county all fines received during the year, amounting to $169. No fines will, therefore, be apportioned this year, as was the custom under the old law.

The state tax fund for this year amounts to $12414.60, the same as last year. The interest on the state school fund amounts to $273.58. This amount remains the same year after year.

Following is the apportionment,
based upon the number of children reported by the school treasurers in their respective townships:

TOWNSHIP TICKET FILED; IMPORTANT PUBLIC QUESTIONS

NO SUCCESSOR CAN BE ELECTED JUSTICE OF THE PEACE AT THIS ELECTION.

TO DECIDE ON GOOD ROADS

Voters Will Decide Whether to Pave Lincoln Highway and Road to Epileptic Colony.

Although the election of John B.
Crabtree to the office of County Judge created a vacancy in the office of Justice of the Peace of Dixon township, which office he had held,
the voters of the township will not vote on his successor at the annual town election which will be held on Tuesday, April 6.

The Socialist party nominated C. C.
Brooks for the vacancy in their caucus, certification of which caucus was made to Town Clerk F. D. Palmer Saturday, but it has been learned that the laws require that such a vacancy be filled by special election, the statutes stating that when the length of the unexpired term is less than one year the vacancy shall be filled by the board of supervisors, and that when the unexpired part of the term is over one year a special election is necessary.

Ticket is Complete.

The time for filing nomination petitions expired Saturday and the complete list of candidates to be voted at the town election is:

For Supervisor—
John M. Sterling, petitioner.
C. H. Gilmore, socialist.
For Assistant Supervisor—
J. M. McCleary, petitioner.
Samuel Mahen, socialist.
For Commissioner of Highways—
Tryon Rosbrook, petitioner.
W. H. DePuy, petitioner.
Charles A. Pepple, socialist.

Bonding Questions.

Two propositions to bond the township for permanent road improvements will also be submitted for the consideration of the electors. One of these is a proposal to issue bonds

AUSTRIAN TROOPS ON FRONTIER

Preparations Are Being Made For War With Italy—Defensive Operations.

WAR SUMMARY.
(Associated Press)

It is reported from Athens that the troops conveyed to the Dardanelles on transports landed yesterday on the Gallipoli peninsula and that a general attack by land and sea will be made on the arrival of the French and British warships which are on their way to reinforce the fleet. It is said that the bombardment of the forts in the straits was resumed yesterday.

ABANDON ATTEMPT.

It has been officially announced by Petrograd that the Germans in north ern Poland have virtually abandoned their attempt to capture Ossowetz for tress, around which the invaders have centered their efforts to break through the Russian chain of defenses.

AUSTRIA PREPARES.

A dispatch from Austrian sources states that war with Italy is regarded as probable and accordingly a large number of Austrian troops are being sent to the Italian border where elaborate preparations for defensive operations are under way.

SANGUINARY BATTLE ON.

What is described by Berlin as one of the greatest and most sanguinary battles of the eastern campaign has developed in the Carpathians. The fight, however, has not reached a state where success for either side is indicated.

BELGIANS MAKE PROGRESS.

Paris has announced that the Belgians have progressed along the Yser and that the French have occupied considerable of the German front in the Vosges.

RAID SUBMARINE PLANT.

The British Admiralty announced today that five aeroplanes had made a successful raid on the German submarine plant near Antwerp. Two submarines which were under construction as well as the works are believed to have been damaged considerably. The works are said to be on fire. One British aviator who landed in Holland will be interned.

TO RESPECT NEUTRALITY.

All British cruisers, not only in American waters but in the Carribean, Pacific and South Atlantic are ordered to refrain from taking supplies from neutral countries and to avoid breaches of neutrality.

DETAILS OF BATTLE.

Dardanelles dispatches say that the details indicate the Turks scored a great success in the fighting last Thursday when the Bouvet, Irresistible and Ocean were sunk. It is reported that three torpedo boats and one destroyer were also sunk, that the British vessel Vengeance was damaged, the battleship Queen Elizabeth was hit five times by howitzer shells and the cruiser Inflexible was struck four times. The Turkish casualties were twenty killed and thirty-five wounded.

REV. DIVAN COMES BACK TO N. DIXON

turned to the North Dixon church.

Rev. Tobias has made a host of friends during his pastorate here and has accomplished much for the churches of which he had charge, therefore there is a general feeling of regret that he has been transferred.

SEEING AMERICA FIRST—THE CAPITOL AT WASHINGTON

The capitol at Washington is a small building about half the size of a modern Union Station. It stands on $10,000,000 worth of ground and cost the government the sum of $15,000,000.

This is a modest sum—not as much as is blown in nowadays on a battleship or a modern hotel but the consensus of opinion of the many millions of tourists who have wandered around the capitol and gazed at its calm and heaven-piercing dome is that the government got an awful lot for its money.

In fact, it never got so much in any other bargain excepting, perhaps, when it bought the Monitor—and that was in no sense an art purchase.

Figures are not important in describing the capitol. It is 751 feet long—not quite as long as the Woolworth building is high—and its dome is surmounted by a warlike dame 19 feet high and 289 feet above the ground. It would be difficult to find the capitol in lower New York City. This is one of the many reasons why we should be devoutly thankful because it is not located there, for no building in America is so well worth finding and looking at.

The capitol is as perfect in its way as is the Venus de Milo who leads the statue league and yet was never distinguished for her size. No tourist who has wandered around the capitol and has scanned its noble columns, porticoes and vine-covered terraces and profoundly perfect dome can fail to go home a better man and with a profound distaste for the architecture of the local city hall.

The capitol is over one hundred years old in spots, but it has never gone out of style. This is also true of the Parthenon, Notre Dame of Paris and some other noted buildings. The easiest way to judge of architectural excellence is to come back about fifty years after a structure has been built and take a look at it.

The capitol has been greatly enlarged and improved in the last century, but the statesmen who inhabit it are smaller, if anything, and not so picturesque. In fact, the most edifying note in the whole building is a casual senator with an unbuttoned vest aiming carelessly at a cuspidor in the great rotunda and missing it by several feet.

ANGER.

When you get mad you lose. The blood rushes from your stomach to your head. Your body is weakened. Your brain is packed with blood so it can't work right. Keep cool.

A horse that gets mad and runs away hurts himself and his best friends.

A dog that gets mad is shot. Two boxers, evenly matched, enter the ring. One gets mad—goes crazy. If the other one keeps cool he beats the crazy man.

Anger makes the nose red—and this should be enough to prevent any woman from getting mad.

Also, when a woman is angry she quarrels with her lover, her husband or her child—any one of these happenings is a calamity for a woman.

When a man gets mad he is a wild man. Look at yourself, man. Your face isn't the same face at all. Your eyes glitter. Your mouth is cruel. Your fists are clenched. Your body trembles.

Why, you are a beast when you are mad.

It goes this way: Anger, weak stomach, dizzy head, poor judgment, lost friends, despair, sickness and in time death.

Everybody reads the Telegraph—the paper that prints all the news, while it is news, is reliable and conservative.

Leo Wahl of Sterling visited with friends in this city last evening.

GARRISON FACED STARVATION

Russ Report That Fortifications Are in Good Condition—Czar's Forces Relieved of Siege Work, Expected to Beleguer Cracow Next—Fall Anticipated.

London, March 24.—While details of the surrender of Przemyśl come in slowly and are read with avidity the main interest in military circles centers around the future of the Russian army corps released by the successful conclusion of the six months siege.

According to dispatches from Petrograd the indications are that General Demetrieff and his troops will now start on Cracow, about 140 miles distant, the last fortified stand of Austria in Galicia. They will invest it and reduce it just as they did at Przemyśl. Large forces will protect all roads from relief columns and the Russian troops will wait for nature to aid them in bringing about the fall of the six big fortifications which guard the inner fortress of the city. Approaching from the east along the railway which comes from Lemberg they can speedily envelope the ancient city shutting off all communications from every point.

Destitution Faced Defenders.

The little narratives of the gradually dwindling provisions, the lack of warm clothing, the lack of medicines, the desperate assaults, the faith that kept up to the last, the final sortie by some, are all to the credit of the Austrians for whom there are heard expressions of admiration on every hand.

After the failure of the Austrian advance by way of Gorizia early in the week not only the commander in chief, General Kusmanek, knew the end was in sight, but the soldiers as well. They were down to a famine allowance of dry biscuits. All meat had long since vanished, all living animals in the city had been killed except a few horses belonging to the high officials. The sick were mounting up daily. Typhus and typhoid had appeared in the garrison and the wounded lay unattended in the fireless houses of the city. Despite that when General Kusmanek ordered the sortie of Friday last the soldiers received their last lot of cartridges, cheerfully plunged eastward along the Sax against the Russian ring of steel, only to fall, back exhausted, badly in numbers, they returned in despair. There was a conference of high officials and on Sunday the general ordered another sortie of 20,000. This time there was no enthusiastic response. The faithful twenty-third honved division, some parts of the eighty-fifth landwehr and the fourth hussars stepped forward, but the others threw down their arms.

Refuse to Fight Without Food.

"We can fight no more without food," they said simply. "You may kill us now—we cannot go." Urgings, entreaties and commands made no difference. They were threatened with execution, but they stood silent. The faithful 20,000 went forth and opposed by the encouraged ring of besiegers, faltered and returned. That was the final stroke. But one more thing remained to be done. Orders were given that every gun in the fortress, every rifle, every cartridge should be employed in one last defiance. This was done Sunday and Sunday night. On the following morning after engineers had vainly tried to destroy their own fortifications the white flag was run up.

The main body of the Russian troops has entered Przemyśl, according to the dispatches from Petrograd. Preceded by a corps of Red Cross nurses the commander in chief and his staff, followed by the infantry, went into the town to be greeted with joy by the few citizens who had remained to suffer the hardships. Ill and wounded were in nearly every house and everywhere were the starving crying for food. So soon as some orderly disposition could be made and the formal ceremonies arranged food was distributed to the prisoners and the citizens.

117,000 Prisoners Captured.

Petrograd, March 24.—The Russian war office announces that 117,000 men were captured at Przemyśl. The statement follows: "According to figures given by General Kusmanek, late commander of Przemyśl, the number of prisoners who surrendered to the Russians was nine generals and ninety-three officers of the general staff, 2,500 officers and officials and 117,000 men. The number of guns and other war material captured is being calculated."

General Palafox Says Reparation Will Be Made.

Washington, March 24.—Relief was felt at the state department on the receipt of a communication from General Palafox, Zapata minister of foreign affairs at Mexico City, expressing regret over the death of John E. McManus, an American at the capital about two weeks ago, and conveying assurances that proper reparation will be made to the widow and child of the deceased.

Secretary Bryan said that negotiations looking to the payment of indemnity to Mrs. McManus were proceeding satisfactorily, but he refused to indicate the probable amount that would be paid in reparation. General Palafox apologized for the incident in behalf of General Zapata and formal notification that apologies had been made came from the Brazilian minister in Mexico City who is representing the United States there. This government also was advised that the persons responsible for the death of McManus would be punished. The promise that punishment will be visited upon the murderers is received here with some skepticism. In view of the failure of Mexican authorities in the past to deal severely with natives guilty of outrages on the nationals of other countries.

BELIVES WAR MUST STOP BY END OF JULY

London.—Edgar Crammond, a prominent financial writer, read a paper before the royal statistical society recently, dealing with the cost of the war. In his opinion, the war must end in July through the exhaustion of some of the belligerents.

Mr. Crammond estimates the total cost of the war to the end of July as 3,398,000,000 pounds sterling ($16,290,000,000) and the total economic loss through damage to property and other direct and indirect losses at 9,148,000,000 pounds sterling ($45,740,000,000) he estimates that Great Britain alone will spend up to the end of July 708,000,000 pounds sterling.

The Times commenting on Mr. Crammond's figures thinks he takes a somewhat exaggerated view, although he is in possession of facts which entitle his opinion to respect.

VOICES WITHIN.

Gently the voices within us, Persuasive and sweetly insistent, Compel us to listen to their pleadings, Pleadings both wise and consistent.

Speaking, compel us to listen. These tireless watchers within And often persuade us to heed well A message which saves us from sin.

If we more often accepted Advice from these guards of the soul,

Less often there'd be a heart ache, More often we'd reach the goal. —H. Burton, Highland Park, Ill.

ODENWALD WILL FEEL U. S. FIST

Government to Prosecute Vessel Held at San Juan.

COAST PORTS TO BE GUARDED

Department of Justice Has Matter Under Consideration Regarding Measures to Be Taken Against Ship That Played Hide and Seek With U. S. Authorities.

Washington, March 24.—The department of justice is preparing to prosecute the owners of the German liner Odenwald, which attempted to escape from San Juan, Porto Rico, without clearance papers. The Odenwald is being held by the war department subject to the orders of the department of justice.

The federal district attorney at San Juan has been asked for a report and until that report has arrived it will not be known here what individuals are to be named in the proceedings.

The offense of the Odenwald was her violation of the recent resolution of congress providing for strict neutrality. Under the terms of the resolution the vessel may be forfeited, or the "owner or master, or person or persons having charge or command of the vessel," may be fined "not less than $2,000 nor more than $100,000," or be "imprisoned not to exceed two years."

Destroyer to San Juan.

In order to make the port of San Juan secure from other cases of escape the secretary of the navy instructed Admiral Fletcher to send a torpedo destroyer from Guantanamo to assist the custom officials of Porto Rico.

The navy department also gave orders that the destroyer Parker, just completed at the Brooklyn navy yard, be assigned to guard duty in New York harbor at once. It is stated that this rush order was due to the absence of the Mohawk of the revenue cutter service from duty at New York.

SUNDAY IS GIVER OF TITHES

Evangelist Is at Home, "God's Fund" Increases $5,000.

Warsaw, Ind., March 24.—In the State bank in this city is a deposit which appears on the book as "God's fund." Tuesday "God's fund" increased more than $5,000. The deposits always come on the day following "Billy" Sunday's return to his home at Winona Lake and they always equal one-tenth of the amount he receives for his work.

One-tenth of Sunday's income goes to the Lord and it is a notable fact here that the evangelist is more concerned about "God's fund" than about his own. The bankers who handle the evangelist's money say that the fund never is allowed to stand long. The bank's books show that Sunday practices charity according to the Bible's teaching.

There is no need to suffer the annoying, excruciating pain of neuralgia; Sloan's Liniment laid on gently will soothe the aching head like magic. "Don't delay. Try it at once."

"I have been a sufferer with Neuralgia for several years and have tried different Liniments, but Sloan's Liniment is the best. I have tried it successfully; it has never failed."—F. H. Williams, Augusta, Ark.

Mrs. Ruth C. Claypool, Independence, Mo., writes: "A friend of mine told me about your Liniment. We have been using it for 13 years and think there is nothing like it. We use it on everything, sores, cuts, burns, bruises, sore throat, headaches and on everything else. We can't get along without it. We think it is the best Liniment made."

Dementtown Doings

Some people remind one most fittingly of a river. When a river's head is smitten one is made aware of the fact by its mouth.

A true hero is one who bears his own burdens without telling his friends of their existence, says an exchange. Yet we'd hardly call him a hero whose "load" is so heavy that he is speechless.

Man is made to mourn. He has to battle to pay the rent and if he can't raise the rent he has to keep on the move.

It is perfectly natural and proper that a man should wear a grave expression when he is acting as pallbearer.

If a man spends all of his money on booze would you say it had been spirited away?

A man can't see why the bedbug was ever created. But that is just what a flea thinks about a hairless dog.

Some men divide their time between being mean to their wives and being nice to other women.

Daughter selects sheer nainsook with baby ribbon rosettes and hand buys a new combination. But mother wants something substantial that will make good scrub rags after it is worn out.

A woman can take one look at another woman and tell whether she is a real blond or a peroxide affair. But a man has to marry before he can tell the difference.

The reason a princess knows that she is going to make a grand housekeeper when she gets married is because she can iron a handkerchief by pasting it on the mirror of her bedroom dresser.

The sort of man who would feel contaminated if his clothes touched yours here on earth is the same lad who is always hoping that he will meet you in heaven.

The Phidian Art Club.

The members of the Phidian Art club were entertained at the home of Mrs. P. G. Lord with Mrs. William Morris as assisting hostess.

Very beautiful music was furnished by Miss Irene Eichenberg, who sang "Joy of Morning," by Harriet Ware and "Just Today," composed by Mrs. Maud Goodsell. Miss Ruth Altman assisted at the piano.

Mrs. Law gave the paper of the afternoon—her subject being "The Spaniard in the United States." Mrs. Law was at her best—as she always is and her audience was most interested and attentive. She mentioned that her subject was one of such great scope that she would be forced to follow the example of the modern chaffeur "touch only the high places"—but she did so in such a manner as to bring an unlimited amount of information extending from the influence exerted upon the world, by the wars of the Crusades. The possessions of Spain—which were greater than those of any other nation—their claim on the new world after Columbus' voyage—and the growth and decay of their power in the United States, due in a great measure to their inability as a people to be good and do right.

In conclusion it is of thrilling interest to stop and to realize that three hundred years ago not a white person knew our land, which is now of the greatest importance in the world, with a population of sixty-three million.

Mrs. Clarence Reid gave a description of the great stream, Urbe, across the African expanse of country, being six thousand five hundred miles long with Cape Colony and Cairo as terminals.

AMERICA BEING DRAINED OF HORSES.

The European war is giving the manufacturers of commercial motor vehicles and tractors an opportunity extraordinary by draining this country of the cream of its horse-flesh. "Old Dobbin" of course, doesn't relish the idea of leaving Yankeeeland to serve as a target for foreign shells, but since there is more profit in selling horses abroad than in the U. S. A. the horses are being shipped over the sea.

Much secrecy surrounded the shipment of 16,000 head of horses from Philadelphia recently, according to a newspaper report. Drove of horses for use in cavalry, artillery and transport service left the West Philadelphia stock yards daily for foreign ports. One carload of horses was received from the southwestern section of the country. All are branded for the nation that is to receive them. All those in the yards now are marked on the left haunch with a brand signifying that they are for the French government. It was learned, also, that a representative of France is on the ground daily, inspecting the animals as they are received. Many of those received recently have never been domesticated. These animals, it is understood, are insured until five days after they reach their destination in Europe. Most of them are being shipped to Havre, France.

WAR DESTROYS MANY NEWSPAPERS.

According to a dispatch from Amsterdam, figures compiled by the postal authorities show that 864 German newspapers have suspended publication since the beginning of the war. No official statistics are available for France, but French journalism has undoubtedly suffered no less severely than German journalism. The Belgian newspapers are practically extinguished. Those that remain are controlled by German commanders and live by sufferance. Among the belligerents, British journalism has suffered least, and British newspapers have not been forced to suspend because their editors and reporters have been summoned to the firing-line, but the economic results of the war have been devastating them. The average American assumes that war must mean circulation and profits for newspapers, but he forgets all about expenses. The war has levied an enormous tax upon the leading American newspapers. In their determination to collect and print the news, they have incurred expenses that would bankrupt the entire journalism of Continental Europe, but, thanks to their efforts, the American people are better informed about this war in all its phases than the people of any other country.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The efforts of the rival news agencies to cripple the Associated Press have failed.

The attorney general of the United States has given it as his opinion that the Associated Press is neither an octopus nor a philanthropist.

The association does not believe in spending huge sums of money for first-hand, first published, accurate news and then giving it to other fellows for nothing.

The Associated Press, a co-partnership firm made up of hundreds of the leading newspapers of the country, has been at the business so long that it is far ahead of its competitors for details and accuracy.

The Telegraph is a member of the Associated Press and our readers are getting the advantage of its service daily.

ACCOMMODATING SPRING.

Somebody who had nothing better to do has warbled the following lines:

"Hail, Gentle Spring,"
Sang the poet in his ode;
And Spring, gentle Spring,
not only hailed, but snowed.

SUCH A CARELESS FELLOW.

A Ford story of recent vintage, so we are led to believe, has it that a man came out of his house one morning and noticed his neighbor clambering around in the branches of a big tree in front of the house. He called to his neighbor and asked him what he was doing up there. The neighbor peevishly explained that he had been trying to crank his Ford that morning and the darn thing flew off the crank, and he was trying to find it.

WEAR OUT RATHER THAN RUST OUT.

Deputy United States Marshal Hanke of Freeport, who was in Dixon on the counterfeiting case, is an old man man, but he covers the ten counties in his district to perfect satisfaction and does his work well. He stated in conversation here that he went on the principle that it was better for a man to wear out than to rust out and he expected to keep on going as long as he lasted.

PRICE OF BREAD IS DOWN.

Bread is back to five cents a loaf in Chicago and wheat is still away up in the air, but the big bakers had to come down off their high horse because the little bakers refused to raise the price of bread. Good for the brave little bakers. They began to get the bulk of the business away from the big fellows so, in spite of the howl about losing money at five cents a loaf, the big bakers are willing to keep the business at that price.

The Germans announce that they will burn three villages for every one burned by the Cossacks and the Cossacks will probably just as cheerfully burn nine villages for every three burned by the Germans, and the villages mainly belong to poor, suffering Poles. This is a great age!

George Fitch, whose witty "Vest Pocket Essays" are enjoyed by Telegraph readers, hits the nail on the head when he says that "Neutrality is the process of making two or more belligerents mad by trying to please all sides."

The prospects are that Europe will have a Fourth of July celebration that will surpass anything this country has ever staged, both in fatalities and fireworks.

DOING TOO MUCH.

"I fear I'll do too much," said James; "I'll more than earn my pay; I don't intend to bust my hames, a-toiling round all day, for such a stipend as I get in this dod-gasted store, and if the boss would see me sweat, he'll have to pay me more." "The day is far too short," said John, "for all I wish to do; the hours fly past and daylight's gone before I'm half way through. And though my pay looks pretty sick, I'll work like old Sam HPI, till boss observes that I'm a brick, and leads me to his till." The boss was keeping tab on them, as bosses always do; to James he said, "Young man, ahem! We have no use for you. The lad who fears he'll do too much with mps will roam the pike, and when he's old he'll be in touch with poorfarms and the like." To John he said, "I've marked your gait, since you first came last fall, and early you have toiled and late, although your pay was small. Oh, all the time and every day, such lads employers seek; and I will now increase your pay by fifty cents a week."

City In Brief

ANOTHER PAWPAW MAN WAS ASSESSED

CLARE V. PARKER FINED $50 BY MAGISTRATE KENT THIS FORENOON.

In the past few weeks there have been picked up in the quiet village of Pawpaw a number of men who have over-indulged in the flowing bowl. On March 5th Charles Lynch of that place was assessed a fine of $25 and costs by Magistrate Kent of this city on the charge of creating a disturbance while under the influence of liquor and a warning was given then that the next man brought up on a similar charge from that place would have the fine doubled. Yesterday Clare V. Parker overstepped the bounds and wanted to clean out a place of business there and a warrant was sworn out by Robt. Pogue charging him with disturbing the peace. He was brought here this forenoon and taken before Magistrate Kent. He pleaded guilty to the charge and true to the warning of a couple of weeks ago the magistrate made the fine $50 and costs. Parker not having funds to settle will board out the fine in the county jail.

sue of $32,500 bonds to pave the Hazelwood road from the city limits to the entrance to the state epileptic colony.

Very Slight Increase.

Should both propositions be carried it will mean but a slight increase in the taxes of the residents of the township. It has been figured by statisticians that the issue of both sets of bonds would mean but an increase of about seven per cent in the individual tax of each taxpayer for the next ten years, of which about three per cent would cover the bonds for the road to the colony and four percent the cost of the Lincoln Highway proposition.

This paved road clear across Dixon township (the Lincoln Way would then be paved for six or seven miles, clear across the township, including the city) would be one of the greatest advertisements and finest recommendations Dixon could possibly secure from tourists, any thousands of whom use this route each year.

The greatest good which would result from the building of the Lincoln Highway paved road would be to the farmers of this township and others nearby and the merchants and property owners of the township, for hauling conditions would be ideal over this stretch of road, rain or shine, all the year around. It would be a progressive move.

The pavement to the epileptic colony is something that Dixon promised the state board of administration when that body agreed to locate the colony here. It is the only investment the township or city has been asked to make in the deal worth untold amounts to this vicinity. The state colony will be the greatest point of interest in this part of the state. Thousands of people will live there. The buildings will be beautiful. There will be a city of no insignificant size out there in a few years. People will come from all over Illinois to visit relatives and friends there. People will tour from all over this part of the state to inspect the grounds. What will they think of Dixon if they have to travel a rough, rocky, road or a muddy, dirt road, to get to the place?

Both of these good road questions should be voted through. The taxpayers will never feel the increase of a few cents that will result. The payments are spread over a period of ten years. The roads should be good for one hundred and fifty.

The collars on these Wooltex coats we show are carefully molded, not hot-iron-pressed into shape.

As the "set" of the collar depends to a great extent upon the tailoring of the lapels and fronts, the latter are so built that they retain their original form, lying close and flat, or gracefully rolling as the style of the garment requires.

CHARLEY HAMILTON WILL MARRY AGAIN

FORMER DIXON BOY, PROMINENT DENVER HOTEL MAN, POLITICIAN AND BANKER TO REWED.

BONIFACE CHARLEY HAMILTON

Is Said to Be Most Popular Hotel Man in Colorado—To Re-Wed Divorced Wife in Short Time.

Boniface Charley Hamilton, that's what they call him out in Denver. He used to live in Dixon and when he was here he had friends wherever he was known. In Denver he is known as one of the most popular hotel men in Colorado.

Mr. Hamilton lived on East Chamberlain street when he lived in Dixon. His father was employed in the D. S. Horton drug store. His brother, Jas. Hamilton, carried papers for the Telegraph when he was a lad. Here is what the Denver Post said of Charley Hamilton in a recent issue. It will be of interest to his many old friends in Dixon:

No longer is it Charles B. Hamilton, Boniface. Rather, it is Charles B. Hamilton, banker.

Which means that probably the best known hotel man in Colorado has sold his interest in the Oxford hotel and the annex to his former partner and business associate, James L. Brooks, and has retired from the business.

The dissolution of this firm of hotel men was completed yesterday as a result of lengthy negotiations. Terms have not been made public but there is every reason to believe that the retiring partner received not only a fair valuation for his part of the holdings, but that he was paid a handsome sum for his good will. It is a certainty that he and Mr. Brooks parted the same good friends they have ever been.

There is a good bit of romance connected with the retirement of Charley Hamilton from the hotel business. It reaches into the more exclusive social circles of Denver because it has to do, in an intimate way, with the return to Denver of the former wife of the hotel man, who is shortly to become his bride for the second time. She was counted as one of the most charming and attractive of the matrons in select social circles before her separation from her equally popular husband.

Business Prospered But Heart Was Dull.

Following their divorce Mrs. Hamilton removed to California, he remaining in Denver. His business prospered but his heart was dull.

Time drifted on and Charley Hamilton announced himself for state senate. This was early last fall. The usual political opposition developed, he being a democrat of the fighting sort and by reason of his exceptional strength drew the fire of the republicans. Mrs. Hamilton, although more than two thousand miles away, was yet keeping track of the man she loved.

This was proved when, like a diamond dropped from the sky came a message direct from her to him which read, "I wish you every success." And these five words were the beginning of the end of the estrangement. He forsook the campaign and everything else to hasten to the western coast. When he returned a few days before the election the smile of good fellowship he ever wears was emphasized by a new gleam in his eyes. And after a bit he explained his increased enthusiasm over the joy of living.

"My former wife and I are going to be remarried this coming spring," he announced. "We know now why we could not agree before and in this knowledge we are to be reunited for all time to come."

Date For Wedding Not Definitely Set.

The date for the wedding has not been definitely set but it will occur as soon as the legislature adjourns.

Following the ceremony which is to reunite Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton, the bride and bridegroom will leave here for a long automobile trip through the east. Returning they will make their home at the former residence in Josephine street.

Senator Hamilton has not made any definite announcement of his plans for the future further than the wedding, to be a feature of Denver social life following the adjournment of the legislature. That he will remain in Colorado is a certainty. And, as a personal tip, it can be announced as a set fact that he will take up the banking business here in the early summer. He has been rated as a real hotel builder, a real business builder, state builder and city builder during his lengthy residence in Denver, and when he gets into the banking business it will not take long for him to begin writing history as a real bank builder.

The Lincoln Highway

An Interesting Story of the Great Road Written for the Saturday Evening Post By former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana.

What Bad Roads Have Cost the Farmer.

All this takes it for granted that the total products of American farms are hauled to market; but that is not true. To the frightful waste of transportation caused by bad roads must be added another sum, which represents products that never get to market at all. One of the most conservative and accurate American economists has shown by careful figures that American farmers lose nearly ten hundred million dollars each year because they cannot get what they have to sell within reach of the purchaser.

The throwing away of actual produce because of bad roads or no roads would build every year forty permanent and perfect ocean to ocean highways such as the Lincoln Highway is to be—for to perfect the Lincoln Highway will cost at least twenty-five million dollars. Astounding, is it not? So much that we product, even with our poor methods of cultivation, never gets to market that this wastage, if saved, would build forty Lincoln Highways.

And not only would good roads throughout the nation save this billion dollars' worth of produce now wasted annually, but they would increase very largely the raising of all manner of foodstuffs and other products, because the ease of marketing would be a selfish incentive to more careful and productive cultivation. Good roads will do more to lower the high cost of living than most people think; just as bad roads have done more to create that problem than is generally supposed.

Is it too much to say that if the whole people could be so awakened to the vital need of universal good-road building that they would act on that need, it would do more for their prosperity, comfort, culture and happiness than the things proposed and fought over in a dozen presidential campaigns?

It is of course out of the question to give in a single article all the advantages, direct and indirect which the building of the Lincoln Highway affords to all the people, and the forward impulse which that thoroughly national work gives to our national life and progress; but one by-product of usefulness should be mentioned, thought it appeals to us little in our present state of mind. Some of us think and all of us hope that war with another country is impossible; yet we have had several wars, most of them breaking suddenly, as is the way of this human pestilence. Should this curse fall on us the Lincoln Highway and its feeders, if well built of durable material, would be of large and lasting service.

There are those who believe that the Lincoln Highway system would be more useful for the transportation of troops and provisions than all our transcontinental railroads; for a highway cannot be so easily torn up as a railroad and can be more easily repaired; automobiles are more numerous and can be more quickly manufactured than freight or passenger cars; and motor driven and horse drawn vehicles of every kind have a flexible adaptability that of course is impossible to the rigid service of cars and engines, which can move only on steel rails.

Other nations build solid and enduring highways with an eye to their military uses, considering as by-products the commercial, social and industrial benefits that may be derived from them. We properly think of their peaceful uses when building our roads; but is it not wise to consider also, their military value in possible emergencies, where the life of the nation might be in peril? If so, the Lincoln Highway and its feeders take on a still larger meaning and stand for patriotism in action and at white heat.

Plans for the Robert E. Lee Road.

Consider now the branches of this AT M. E. CHURCH TONIGHT. Rev. W. L. Collin, pastor of the Fourth street Methodist church at Sterling, will preach at the special service at the local M. E. church this evening.

IN PORTLAND, ORE.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Rosbrook, who left Dixon early in the winter, are now at Portland, Ore. They spent considerable time in California, covering a distance of 2,000 miles in that state alone. They will probably be home early in April.

ADVERTISED MAIL.

The following mail remains uncalled for at the Dixon, Illinois, post-office, for the period ending March 22, 1915.

Letters—John E. Davis, E. A. Falski, Mrs. Jake Hewett, Mrs. L. Johnson, Mr. Joe McGree, Miss Belle May,

main artery of commerce and travel. It is of course only human that people living near the Lincoln Highway and experiencing the saving, comfort and other benefits of a thoroughly well built road, will see to it that they are equally connected with the Highway by roads equally excellent; and this process will extend mile after mile north and south of the main line.

One great tributary to the Lincoln Highway already projected and hardly less important than the transcontinental line, will serve as an illustration of the larger branches. It appeals to the imagination quite as much as the Lincoln Highway itself, and its patriotic meaning and usefulness are quite as great as the parent line. It is proposed to run this branch from some point on the Lincoln Highway near Chicago, southward to Indianapolis, and thence on through Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, and Florida. This would give a continuous improved highway from the Lakes through the South to the ocean at Jacksonville, Florida.

The route has already been roughly mapped out, but not yet fixed. The first step in the tangible progress of this vital branch highway depends largely on the interest and activity of the governors of those states through which it is to pass. As in the case of the ocean to ocean trunk line connecting roads for this Southern thoroughfare already exist; but few of them are improved and most of them are impracticable in their present condition for the automobile or any other form of comfortable highway traveling.

This physical joining of the North and South would have a patriotic result that cannot be overstated. Great and ever-increasing numbers of our Northern people would make this journey every spring, fall and particularly in winter; and of course a large and ever increasing number of the Southern people would make the Northern trip. Everybody will appreciate the good effect of this. It has been suggested by Northern men that this Southern route be named for the South's great general and beloved hero, Robert E. Lee.

Here again the economic results loom large. The volume of fluid money continually poured out by the automobile and other tourists along this southern line would furnish the South with fertilizing streams of cash, which the development of that section has sorely needed. The rise and fall of the price of cotton would no longer be an immediate life and death matter with the southern planter in the states traversed.

Such are a few of the mountain peaks of attractive usefulness the Lincoln Highway reveals to the eye of reflection. What, now, of its origin? How did the enterprise begin? What is the story of its progress? Just what is being done to carry it forward? Of all the astonishing performances in our amazing country is there any which surpasses the concept of the Lincoln Highway and the swift but well ordered working out of that large but simple thought?

The germ of the idea is as old almost as our independence. Washington was the first great good-roads enthusiast in America; and Chief Justice Marshall kept well abreast of Washington by his fervid interest in the building of substantial highways which would bind together the scattered sections of a common country.

Indeed, every commanding statesman during the first half of our national existence was a champion of road building; and the minds of all on a practicable thoroughfare from the seaboard to the Mississippi. With Henry Clay this purpose became an obsession; and so incessant were his activities that popular sentiment inaccurately bestowed on him the title of Father of the National Road.

DOES SMOKING BORE YOU?

In the February Woman's Home companions Rollin Lynde Hartt writes "The Confession of an Ex-Smoker." About a year ago he gave up the use of tobacco, and his experience is recorded in part as follows:

"I found that smoking bored me. Like other confirmed smokers, I smoked to escape discomfort, not to gain enjoyment.

"Now it is always a nuisance, smoking and when the fun has gone out of it a man hates to carry a kit of tools—matches, tobacco box, pipe, cleaners or cigars and a cigar cutter—everywhere he goes. He hates always having one hand busy managing the pipe or cigar and one side of his mouth busy smoking while he talks from between his teeth on the other side. He hates everlasting lighting matches, and more matches, and continually disposing of ashes or having them burn holes where they sit down, red hot, on his clothes. He hates going to the dentist frequently, to re-discover his teeth."

WILL INITIATE CANDIDATES.

The special meeting of Dixon lodge B. P. O. E. to be held at their club rooms tomorrow evening for the purpose of initiating a class of candidates promises to be one of interest inasmuch as the initiatory and degree work will be in charge of the officers and degree team of Sterling lodge No. 1217. A social session will follow the meeting.

The Exploits of Elaine

A Detective Novel and a Motion Picture Drama

"You see, Miss Dodge," began Mary. "We're getting up this movement to help the Belgians and we have splendid backing. Just let me show you some of the names on our committee."

She handed Elaine a list. "I've just been sent to see if I cannot persuade you to join the committee and attend a meeting at Mrs. Riverton's," she went on.

"Why—er," considered Elaine, thoughtfully, "er—yes. It must be all right with such people in it." "Can you go down with me now?" "Just as well as later," agreed Elaine.

They went out together, and as they were leaving the house a man who had been loitering outside looked at Elaine, then fixedly at her companion.

No sooner had they gone than he sped off to a car waiting around the corner. In the dark depths was a sinister figure, the master criminal himself. The watcher had been an emissary of the Clutching Hand.

"Chief," he whispered eagerly, "you know Adventurous Mary? Well, she's got Elaine Dodge in tow!"

"The deuce!" cried Clutching Hand. "Then we must teach Mary Carson, or whoever she is working for, a lesson. No one shall interfere with our affairs. Follow them!"

Elaine and Mary had gone downtown, talking animatedly—walking down the avenue toward Mrs. Riverton's apartment.

Meanwhile, Wong Sin, still in his Chinese costume, was explaining to another male servant just what he wished done, pointing out the dagger on the wall and placing the bladder under his jacket. A box of opium was on the table, and he was giving most explicit directions. It was into such a web that Elaine was being unwittingly led by Mary.

Entering the hallway of the apartment, Mary rang the bell. The servant opened the door and Elaine and Mary entered. He closed the door and almost before they knew it was gone into the back room.

Elaine gazed about in trepidation. But before she could say anything, Mary, with a great show of surprise, exclaimed, "Why, I must have made a mistake. This isn't Mrs. Riverton's apartment. How stupid of me."

They looked at each other a moment. Then each laughed nervously, as together they started to go out of the door. It was locked!

Quickly they ran to another door. It was locked also.

Just then the Chinaman entered and stood a moment gazing at them. They turned and Elaine recoiled from him. Wong bowed.

"Oh, sir," cried Mary, "we've made a mistake. Can't you tell us how to get out?"

"No speke Englis," he said, gliding out again from the room and closing the door.

Elaine and Mary looked about in despair.

"What shall we do?" asked Elaine. Mary said nothing, but with a hasty glance discovered on the wall the knife which Wong had already told her about. She took it from its scabbard. As she did so the Chinaman returned with a tray on which were queer drinks and glasses.

At the sight of Mary with the knife she scowled blackly, laid down the tray, and took a few steps in her direction. She brandished the knife threateningly; then, as if her nerve failed her, fainted, letting the knife fall carefully on the floor so that it struck on the handle, and not on the blade.

Wong quickly caught her as she fainted and carrying her out of the room, banged shut the door. Elaine followed in a moment, loyally to protect her supposed friend, but found that the door had a snap lock on the other side.

She looked about wildly, and in a moment Wong reappeared. As he advanced slowly and insinuatingly, she drew back, pleading. But her words fell on seemingly deaf ears.

She had picked up the knife which Mary had dropped, and when at last Wong maneuvered to get her cornered and was about to seize her, she nervously stepped and stabbed at him resolutely.

Wong staggered back—and fell. As he did so, he pressed the bladder which he had already placed under his coat. A dark red fluid, like blood, oozed out all over him and ran in a pool on the floor.

Elaine, too horror-stricken at what had happened even to scream, dropped the knife and bent over him. He did not move. She rose quickly and ran through the now open door. As she did so, Wong seemed suddenly to come to life. He raised himself and looked after her, then with a subtle smile sank back into his former assumed posture on the floor.

When Elaine reached the other room she found Mary there with the Chinese servant who was giving her a glass of water. At the sight of her, the servant paused, then withdrew into another room farther back. Mary, now apparently recovering from her faintness, smiled wanly at Elaine.

"It's all right," she murmured. "He is a Chinese prince who thought we were callers."

At the reassuring nod of Mary toward the front room, Elaine was overcome. "I—I killed him!" she managed to gasp.

"What?" cried Mary, starting up and trembling violently. "You killed him—"

"Yes," sobbed Elaine. "He came at me—had the knife—I struck at him—"

The two girls ran into the other room. There Mary looked at the motionless body on the floor and recoiled, horrified.

Elaine noticed some spots on her hands, and, seeing that they were stained by the blood of Long Sin, wiped the spots off on her handkerchief, dropping it to the floor.

"Ugh!" exclaimed a guttural voice behind them.

It was the servant who had come in.

"You—kill him—with knife?" insinuated the Chinese.

Elaine was dumb. The servant did not wait for an answer, but hastily opened the hall door.

To Elaine it seemed that something must be done quickly. A moment and all the house would be in uproar.

Instead, he placed his finger on his lips. "Quick—no word," he said, leading the way to the hall door, "and—oh, you must not leave that—it will be a clue," he added, picking up the bloody handkerchief and pressing it into Elaine's hand.

They quickly ran out into the hall. "Go—quick!" he urged again, "and hide the handkerchief in the bag. Let no one see it!"

He shut the door. As they hurried away Elaine breathed a sigh of relief.

They had reached the street. Afraid to run, they hurried as fast as they could until they turned the first corner.

They pressed each other's hands and parted.

Meanwhile in the front room Long Sin was on his feet again, brushing himself off and mopping up the blood.

"It worked very well, Sam," he said to the servant.

They were conversing eagerly and laughing and did not hear a noise in the back room.

A sinister figure had made its way by means of a fire escape to a rear window that was not barred, and silently he had stolen in on them.

They turned at a slight noise and saw him. Genuine fright was now on their faces as they looked at him, open mouthed.

"What's all this?" he growled. "I am known as the Clutching Hand. I allow no interference with my affairs. Tell me what you are doing here with Elaine Dodge."

Their ready almond eyes flashed fear. The Clutching Hand moved menacingly. There was nothing for the astute Wong Long Sin to do but to submit.

With a low bow, Wong spread out his hands in surrender and submission. "I will tell you, honorable sir," he said at length.

"Go on!" growled the criminal. Quickly Wong rehearsed what had happened from the moment the idea of blackmail entered his head.

"How about Mary Carson?" asked Clutching Hand. "I saw her here."

Wong gave a glance of almost superstitious dread at the man.

"She will be back—is here now," he added, opening the door at a knock and admitting her.

Adventurous Mary had hurried back to see that all was right. This time Mary was genuinely scared at the forbidding figure of which she had heard.

"It is all right," pacified Wong. "Henceforth we work with the honorable Clutching Hand."

At home at last, Elaine sank down into a deep library chair and stared straight ahead. She saw visions of arrest and trial, of the terrible electric chair with herself in it, bound, and of the giving of the fatal signal for turning on the current.

Were such things as these going to happen to her, without Kennedy's help? Why had they quarreled? She buried her face in her hands and wept.

Then she could stand it no longer. She had not taken off her street clothes. She rose and almost fled from the house.

Kennedy and I were still in the laboratory when a knock sounded at the door. I went to the door and opened it. There stood Elaine Dodge.

It was a complete surprise to Craig. "What is the matter?" he asked.

She hesitated, then suddenly burst out, "Craig—I—I am a murderer!"

I had never before seen such a look on Craig's face as suddenly came over it.

Then she poured forth the story substantially as I have set it down, but without the explanation, which at that time was not known to any of us.

"Oh," expostulated Craig, there must be some mistake. It's impossible—impossible."

"No," she asserted. "Look—here's my handkerchief all spotted with blood."

Making of Moving Pictures

Many Interesting Scenes at Universal City, Cal.

Remarkable Tangiers Street Scene, Built for the Terence O'Rourke Picture at Universal City.

The very first step in the making of a photograph is the writing of the story which is known as a scenario. This scenario is a complete outline of the entire picture consisting of the cast of characters, a brief story and a description of the scenes. The manuscripts are read carefully by the scenario editor, and the available 1 per cent are kept, the others returned at once to the authors. Most of the manufacturers at the present time have a scenario department and these writers supply the majority of the scripts that the companies use.

After the manuscript is decided upon, it is then turned over to the producer who puts it in final shape for production. He makes a list of all the properties needed and arranges for costumes. Many companies after purchasing a script turn it over to their own scenario writers to put in shape. Rarely is an outsider's scenario in proper condition to be produced.

The Moving Picture Stage.

The stage is the next step to be considered. The modern studio stage for the production of moving pictures far surpasses its counterpart, the legitimate stage, in its equipment for elaborately staged productions. In Universal City some of the largest stages in the world have been built. The interior studio, where pictures are taken in rainy weather, at night or on cloudy days is equipped with an artificial lighting system. The lights are placed overhead and at all sides, throwing a powerful glare on the scene. When all the lights are going, nearly three hundred in number, the candlepower exceeds ten thousand. In addition to these there are also Aristo are lights used to produce different effects. This studio alone is 180 feet long and 60 feet wide.

The largest moving picture exterior stage in the world, accommodating twenty sets, or scenes, has been built

Dramatic Notes

FAMILY THEATRE.

Six reels of pictures have been engaged for tonight at the Family theatre. The 11th episode in The Exploits of Elaine, in two parts, featuring The Hour of Three, heads the bill. The Hearst-Selig Weekly News of Current Events shows Pasadena rose carnival, German fight in trenches, Teton soldiers train field guns on Belgian foes, opening of Panama fair, etc. "The Evil Men Do" is a Broadway star feature by the Vitagraph company, in three parts, with Maurice Costello and a stellar cast, a thrilling story of duplicity, an impressive illustration of Be sure your sins will find you out.

PRINCESS THEATRE.

Tonight the Princess will show a thrilling two reel feature entitled, "The Green Idol," a Reliance feature with Frank Bennett and Francelia Billington in the leading roles a story of mystery and intrigue in which a girl narrowly escapes from the clutches of a Hindoo impostor. The other pictures are a Princess drama entitled "Joe Harkins' Ward" a very interesting and pleasing drama with Boyd Marshall and Rene Farrington in the leading roles. The other reel is a Thanhouse drama entitled "Little Bobby," a sweet comedy drama admirably interpreted by Helen Badgley and Harris Gordon.

OPERA HOUSE.

An aged violinist in the French army pays a debt of gratitude to a German who saved his life in New York by assisting him to escape. "The Treason of Attila" a timely two reel domestic and war drama enacted by Violet Mesereau, Wm. Welsh and the Imp players.

"The Mystery of the Man Who Slept" is the one reel drama, a Rex detective drama of the most recent release and certainly one of the most interesting films ever produced by the company, not a dull moment throughout. Ben Wilson in the leading role.

The comedy is a "peach," one of those inimitable Joker comedies entitled "Fools and Pajamas," making in all a most unique program.

DIRE DISTRESS

IT IS NEAR AT HAND TO HUNDREDS OF DIXON READERS.

Don't neglect an aching back. Backache is often the kidneys' cry for help.

Neglect hurrying to the kidneys' aid. Means that urinary troubles may follow.

Or danger worse than kidney trouble.

Here's Dixon testimony. Mrs. C. Charlton, 516 Lincoln avenue, Dixon, says: "I had been suffering for a long time from pains across my back and sides. The trouble was particularly severe at night and early in the morning. When I bent over to lift anything, I was hardly able to straighten up again. My kidneys were inactive. Finally I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Leake Bros Co.'s drug store and it didn't take them long to give me relief."

The above statement was given on May 1st, 1912, and when Mrs. Charlton was again interviewed on January 21st, 1915, she said: "I use Doan's Kidney Pills whenever my back gets lame. Another of my family has also taken them with the best of results."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Charlton had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Hospital Burns; Inmate Dies.

ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY FIGHTING SMALLPOX

Three New Cases Cause Students to Rush Vaccination.

Champaign, Ill., March 24.—Fearing contagion of smallpox, hundreds of University of Illinois students have been vaccinated as the result of the discovery of three new cases. Three freshmen agricultural students, H. G. Perry, William Mandeville and Rolla Shaddock, are being cared for in the emergency hospital on the campus. Thomas Arkle Clark, dean of men, advised all students to be vaccinated. Perry lived in the Y. M. C. A. with 150 other students. Following the outbreak of his case the Y. M. C. A. was ordered closed and everyone in the building was inspected and vaccinated.

Shaddock lived at a local rooming house for students. He was ill for nearly a week before leaving for the hospital.

Neither of the boys is dangerously ill. Dean Clark, in a statement just issued, said that there was no immediate danger and that necessary precautions are being taken to check the epidemic.
